For asmuch as anciently from the Beginning, the valiant and vertuous Acts of excellent Persons, have been commended in the World, with sundry Monuments and Remembrances of their good Desert, amongst the which the chiefest and most usual hath been the Bearing of Signs and Tokens in Shields, called Arms; being no other Things, than Demonstrations and Tokens of Prowess and Valour, diversly distributed according to the Qualities and Deserts of meriting the same, to the Intent, that such as by their Virtues do shew forth to the sole Advancement of the Commonwealth, the Shine and Brightness of their good Life and Conversation, in daily Practice of Things worthy and commendable, which indeed

I could not without his great Injury, aſſign unto him any other Arms, than theſe which are lineally deſcended by Anceſtors, that is to ſay, Ermine, on a Croſs ſable, a Creſcent ſilver, the Difference of a ſecond Brother: And yet, not knowing for certain, of any Creſt belonging to the ſame Arms (as commonly to ancient Arms there belongeth none) hath required me the ſaid Clarencieulx, to aſſign unto him a Creſt or Cogniſance meet and lawful to be borne, without Prejudice or Offence to any other Person. Hen.* II.) having obtain'd a Grant of the Caſtle and Honour of Berkley, aſſum'd the Surname of Berkley, which together together with the Caſtle and Barony, continues to them in the Male Line, to this Day; and moſt of the Barons Berkley have been very remarkable in their reſpective Generations. 'Tis to be noted, That this Family can hardly be equalled for their Nobility, by any other Family in England, if by any in Europe; for they are deſcended of the Blood Royal of Denmark, by Harding their firſt Anceſtor, from the Dukes of Normandy, by Eve Wife of the firſt Robert, from the ancient Saxons, by Alice the Daughter of the Lord Dudley, by Elizabeth the Wife of George Lord Berkley, and from the Blood Royal of France and England, by Iſabel the Wife of the firſt James Lord Berkley, as alſo from the Houſe of Saxony in Germany, from Patrick King of Leimſter in Ireland, and from ſome of the chief Families in Spain. William, the eleventh Baron, being much in Favour with King Edward IV. was by him created Viſcount Berkley, 21ſt of his Reign; by Richard III. Earl of Nottingham; and by Henry VII. Earl Marſhal of England, with a Limitation of that Office to the Heirs Male of his Body, and Marquiſs of Berkley. He had three Wives, but left no Iſſue, wherefore Maurice his Brother ſucceeded him as Baron of Berkley only, but inherited little or nothing of the Eſtate, becauſe his Brother William, the laſt Lord, being angry with him for his marrying a Perſon of mean Parentage, viz. Iſabella, the Daughter of Philip Mead, Eſq; an Alderman of Briſtol, gave all his Lands away from him, and particularly ſettled the Caſtle and Honour of Berkley upon King Henry and his Heirs. But this Gentleman being a diligent and prudent Man, recovered a great Part of the ancient Eſtate again, by looking into his Brother's Grants, which were very defective, and diſcreetly managing Suits of Law with the Occupiers of them, but never came into Poſſeſſion of Berkley Caſtle, and the Lands thereunto appertaining, which remained in the Crown, 'till Henry Lord Berkley recover'd them by the Death of King Edward VI. without Heirs Male, after they had been alienated above 60 Years; by which Means he likewiſe repoſſeſſed the ancient Seat of his Anceſtors in Parliament. George, his great Grandſon being one of the Privy Councell to King Charles II. was created Viſcount Durſley, and Earl of Berkley, 1679. Charles his Son was ſummoned to Parliament, vita Patris, was employ'd in ſeveral Embaſſies, was one of the Lords Juſtices of Ireland, in 1699 and 1700, and a Lord of the Privy Councel to King William and Queen Anne: James his Son ſucceeded him in 1710; he applied himſelf to Maritime Affairs, and became one of the Admirals of the Fleet; He was ſummon'd to Parliament by the Title of Lord Berkley, in his Father's Life time, and is now Firſt Lord Commiſſioner of the Admiralty, and one of the Lords of His Majeſty's Bedchamber. He married Louiſa, Daughter of Charles Duke of Richmond (lately dead of the Small Pox) by whom he hath Iſſue only one Daughter living, the Lady Elizabeth.
